

Beekeepers Quarterly Magazine: special offer to DBKA members

The Quality Quarterly with Quarterly Quality!

The Beekeepers Quarterly is an international English language beekeeping journal published by Northern Bee Books since 1984. Edited by John Phipps this full colour A4 magazine has over 60 pages full of the latest beekeeping news, views and research.

A strong team of correspondents from all over the world report regularly on beekeeping topics of local and global importance. Whilst its contents are directed mainly to beekeeping, the magazine also looks at the wider issues which have an impact on the craft especially as regards to the environment, farming, conservation and global warming.

Contributors have specialised knowledge on particular aspects of beekeeping, drawn largely from their own experiences, and include both amateur and commercial beekeepers, scientists, and representatives of organisations that have an interest in beekeeping as a craft or industry.

Published 4 times a year in March, June, September and December.

The normal subscription price for the print edition, mailed to your home address is £30, but DBKA members can subscribe for the discounted price of just £24 for the four issues in 2022.
